Lernziele / Kompetenzen	The core of the work is learning approaches to physical and vocal techniques that provide students with the skills for individual research on the body and voice in training and performance. Research is the very nature of the acting process studied which then manifests itself in students' own investigation into acting. The MA in acting aims to train the artist to be independent through a program that gives the skills, confidence and methods to develop their own practice.
Inhalte	RESIDENCY AT SONG OF THE GOAT THEATRE, WROCLAW, POLAND The course will offer students 25 hours of practical training each week, led by members of the Song of the Goat company who will teach their own unique approach to actor training. This method, which approaches the performer in a holistic way, involves working from the body into voice, song and text work. It emphasizes the flow between movement, rhythm and sound both within the individual and the ensemble, with the view to developing true partnership and support within this dynamic. Each of the company members will approach this from their own particular strength: the voice and its connection to imagination and deep personal song, working with physical impulses, text, presence and the state of readiness. Each student will also have the opportunity for an individual tutorial. The landscape of his imagination of the writings of Bruno Shulz will provide the framework of exploration. Additionally there will be lectures each week by eminent academics contextualizing the Company's work in the long tradition of ensemble-research theatre work in Poland and Eastern Europe.
