Inhalte	KünstlerInnen schaffen Displays im Ausstellungskontext. Das Display dient aber nicht einfach der Anordnung oder Installation von Objekten im Raum, sondern der Konstruktion von sozialen Situationen, die die Kunst auf nicht rein künstlerische Kontexte hin öffnet. Dabei bestimmt die Frage der (Re-)Präsentierbarkeit bereits den Entstehungsprozess der Arbeit. Der Begriff Display bezeichnet künstlerische Strategien im Umgang mit Präsentationsformen einer Ausstellung. Die Arbeiten der Studierenden werden vor dem Hintergrund eines Verständnisses von Display als einer künstlerischen Präsentationsweise betrachtet, in der eine Präsentationssituation geschaffen wird, in der sowohl das, was das Display zeigt, als auch die Art und Weise, wie es gezeigt wird (also die Effekte des Displays), ausgestellt werden. Im Praxis-Seminar werden zudem historische und theoretische Perspektivierungen künstlerischer Verfahren im Umgang mit Medien und ihrer Präsentation diskutiert. Weiter werden Fragen der Präsentation und des Prozessualen adressiert. Wie steht die Zeitlichkeit einer künstlerischen Arbeit im Verhältnis zur Zeit der Ausstellung? Und was passiert, wenn sich Präsentation und Erfahrung gegenseitig bedingen und durchdringen?

Artists create displays in the context of exhibiting (or the context of an exhibition). Yet the idea of "display" serves not only the arrangement or installation of an object within a space, but the construction of social situations that open art to non-artistic contexts. The question of (re-)presentability even dominates the process of producing a work, and the notion of display indicates artistic strategies to deal with modes of presentation in a show. Students' works will be examined against the backdrop of understanding display as an artistic mode of presentation, in which a certain context of presentation is created, both in what a display reveals or illustrates and how (through its specific effects) it will be exhibited. In the seminar historical and theoretical perspectives on artistic processes, including the use of media and their presentation, will be discussed, and questions surrounding presentation and process addressed. What is the temporal relationship of an artwork to the moment of its exhibition? And what happens when presentation and experience mutually condition and permeate each other?

The practical seminar will offer offsite activities (such as exhibition visits and meetings with displayers), including some activities in cooperation with the Migros Museum für Gegenwartskunst.
