Inhalte	Das Modul wird in Englisch durchgeführt. Finding and developing the ability to translate through a written character a contemporary and personal thought is the aim. The modul will focus on one main theme formulated in a play (classical). With the students we will find the corelation theme-character and work on character building based on this relation. The modul incorporates: play interpretation, character interpretation, character-diary writing, improvisation exercises, creation of gesture and movement partiture of the performing group, sharing and comments in group sessions on the work developed together, etc. It is important that the students develop their own interpretation, rather than having to follow a premeditated directorial concept. At the end of the modul there will be a presentation/performance.
